

PROGRESSIVE PARTY TO CONTINUE ACTIVITY

Organization to be Perpetuated in Borough and County.

PLEASED WITH SHOWING

Leaders Happy Over Great Success at Election--Banquet for Dr. Temple.

Highly gratified at the showing made at the election last week, Washington party men of this community are taking steps to make the organization formed previous to election time permanent. The Progressive club which was formed to carry on the campaign for the national district and county officers will be maintained for the time being much as it is, with the same corps of officers. It is understood to be the intention of the county Progressive organization to perfect a club and to perpetuate its existence by the pre-emption of a name. The Washington party was as successful in this district as it was almost anywhere, landing a Congressman and one of three legislators, to say nothing of breaking the grip of the Republicans in their strongholds.

Next year there will be to elect in the county a recorder to take the place of J. C. Sutherland, and a controller to take the place of John H. Moffitt. In Charleroi there will be an important election, among other officers to be selected being those of burgess and tax collector; two councilmen and two members of the school board. The new Progressive party will back men for these offices. Dr. H. J. Repman is the president of the Charleroi Progressive club; George S. Migh is the vice president; Guy Moffitt, Esq., is the secretary and Albion Blindley is the treasurer. Arrangements are being made at the county seat to tender the Congressman-elect, Dr. H. W. Temple, an honor banquet on next Thursday night.

FREIGHT SIDESWIPES A PASSENGER TRAIN

Some delay in traffic was the result of a slight wreck at the West Brownsville Junction Tuesday night. Passenger train 171, north bound, due in Charleroi at 8:31 o'clock was sideswiped by a freight train. Cars of both trains were derailed. The damage was slight.

STATE WORKER UNABLE TO COME

Word has been received that W. D. Stem the State Organized Adult Bible School superintendent will be unable to speak in Charleroi as scheduled on November 22, owing to illness. Mr. Stem was to have made an address at the First Presbyterian church.

Stephen Wingett is in Washington today on business.

SMOTHERED BY PILLOW

Month Old Infant at Monongahela Meets Death in Peculiar Manner.

Leslie Elwood Buckner, the month old infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Buckner of Fourth avenue, Monongahela was smothered to death this morning through accident. The child was placed on a chair by its mother, while she was talking to a neighbor. While her back was turned it slipped off the chair and into a pillow head first. There it smothered. When the mother turned the child was dead.

RICH COAL FIELD TO BE OPENED UP BY NEW RAILROAD

Extensive developments of the Greene county, this state and the Monongahela county, W. Va., coal fields will begin soon after the first of the year, according to railroad officials. It is said that many owners of properties in the two counties, opened by the Buckhannon & Northern railroad and the extension of the Monongahela railroad, have pretty well defined plans for the opening of new mines and that announcement of such plans may be expected soon. Coupled with this statement, is the declaration of another railroad official that the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie expects to secure two-thirds of the coal and coke needed for fuel in the factories and industries along the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie lines, from the coal fields in the two counties. At present only one-third of the fuel needed in the factories and mills along the P. & L. E. lines is taken from territories reached by this railroad and its subsidiaries. Consequently more than half of the fuel needed in these factories will be secured from Greene and Monongahela counties, according to high officials. Regular freight traffic over the new railroad is expected to begin January 1, it is stated, following a trip of inspection by officials of the New York Central lines Saturday.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE TO MEET HERE ON FRIDAY

Baptist Young People's unions of the churches comprising the sixth group, Pittsburgh Baptist Association will hold a rally at the Charleroi Baptist church on Friday evening of this week. People will attend from the various churches represented in the district, Library, Monongahela, Donora, Monessen, Riverview and others.

A euchre will be held at Turner ball tonight for the benefit of St. Jerome's church. Playing will begin at 8 o'clock. All are invited. 96-11

MOTHER IS CHARGED WITH KILLING BABE

Donora Woman Thought to be Insane Held for Drowning Four-Months Old Child in a Wash Boiler.

The county authorities are confronted by a particularly sad case from Donora in the person of Mrs. Catherine Sampo, wife of Steve Sampo, a respected foreigner employed on the railroad there. The woman whose home is on Watkins avenue, is charged with having drowned her 4-months-old daughter. She is now held in the Donora lockup awaiting the outcome of an inquest, which will be held by Coroner James Heffran this evening.

Mrs. Sampo for the past six months has been suffering from mental derangement, according to those who know her. It is said the husband, who is a hard working man, has made ineffectual attempts to have her cared for in the county home and in the Allegheny General hospital. Monday Sampo went to Pittsburgh to make another attempt to have his wife placed in an institution where she could receive treatment. He did not get back to Donora until the late train. When he entered his home he was surprised to see his little 4-months-old daughter sitting in a rocking chair. A second glance showed the child was dead. The mother and her two boys were asleep in an adjoining room.

COURT CASES HEARD

Sentences Are Imposed on Number of Offenders

WELL UP WITH CASES

The trial list for criminal court at Washington for the first two days of this week has been cleared up, with the exception of two liquor cases. Several petty cases were disposed of Tuesday.

Charles Nixon a Washington colored dealer, charged with keeping a gambling house, entered a plea of guilty. Sentence was suspended pending the disposition of the case against him in which he is charged with larceny from person.

John Wright, a young married man of North Strabane township, near Canonsburg, was given a rather severe sentence when he was convicted open lewdness. He was directed to pay the costs, fine of $25 and to undergo imprisonment in the county jail for four months.

James Palmer, colored, was acquitted of a serious charge preferred against him on behalf of his young stepdaughter.

I. E. Goodridge, a Washington meat dealer, was found guilty of maintaining a nuisance. The alleged offense arose out of complaints against a slaughter house maintained by Mr. Goodridge on West Maiden street extension. He was paroled on condition that he pay the costs and abate the nuisance.

Robert Sinoat, charged with carrying concealed weapons was found not guilty, but assessed half the costs. The other half was placed on Andrew Kurtz, the private prosecutor. The alleged offense was committed at Avella.

Andy Suosko, of Canonsburg, is on trial for violating the liquor laws. Isaac Levenstein of Cecil, is on trial on a charge of open lewdness.

Mike Dombriski and Mike Smith, charged with assault and battery were found guilty. They are witnesses in the Levenstein case and sentence has not yet been pronounced.

The grand jury is still at work and on Tuesday heard several cases. There was an unusual number of bills ignored with costs placed on the private prosecutors. The grand jury will not get through until today. It will be just a week today since it began its work.

Kerfoot W. Daly, Charles S. Van Voorhis and Tom P. Sloan have gone to Fulton county on a hunting trip.

Sampo called in neighbors and a physician was summoned. An examination showed the child had been drowned and an investigation about the case led to the conclusion that the insane mother had ended the little one's life by thrusting it into a wash boiler filled with soap suds. Mrs. Sampo was taken to the lockup. She refuses to answer any questions and sits in her cell apparently entirely oblivious of all about her. Since being locked up she has taken no food and has not slept.

Coroner Heffran was notified and set the inquest for this evening.

DYNAMITE TO WRECK A ROLLER

Road Repair Vehicle Blown up by Unknown at Zollarsville

BLOODHOUNDS ON TRAIL

A dynamite outrage which has aroused the entire community in the vicinity of Marianna and Zollarsville occurred about 8:30 Tuesday night when the steam road roller owned by West Bethlehem township was dynamited and totally wrecked. At a late hour Isaac Walker and his bloodhounds arrived from Washington and started to work on the case, it being the determination of the residents of the countryside to clear up the mystery surrounding the dynamiting.

The roller which had been in use was left standing near the residence of J. M. Horn not far from Zollarsville. About 8:30 o'clock a terrific explosion, which was heard over a wide area occurred. Mr. Horn and his son Clyde ran out and soon found the cause. So violent was the explosion that telephone lines were wrecked and it was some little time before the alarm could be spread. After a brief investigation it was decided to summon the bloodhounds.

The dynamite had evidently been placed in the roller for a definite purpose and when the stuff let go it spent the greater part of its force on the forward part of the machine. The front end was demolished and the front of the boiler torn completely off. It is believed it will be impossible to repair the machine.

About the roller were found footprints and those attracted by the explosion were kept back from these in order that they might not be obliterated. Running from the roller was found a fuse which ended in a field 40 feet away. At the end of the fuse was found a canvas glove.

Between 25 and 30 persons were called out by the explosion and following the examination which determined that it was a dynamite outrage various efforts were made to find a clue to the perpetrator. Feeling ran high and at a late hour Tuesday night the members of the self-appointed posse expressed themselves as determined to run the guilty person or persons to earth.

MAKING SURVEYS FOR NEW RAILROAD LINE

FIRE CAUSE UNEXPLAINED

Monongahela Building Gutted by Flames This Morning at Early Hour

A building adjoining the Ideal Theatre on Main street, at Monongahela was destroyed by fire this morning at about 3 o'clock, entailing a loss of about $1,500. The building was owned by David Wexler, who held insurance sufficient to cover the damage. The entire inside of the structure was gutted. Investigations are being made to ascertain the cause of the fire.

OFFICIAL COUNT NECESSARY TO SIX STANDING

Advices from Harrisburg are to the effect that it is going to require an official count of the votes cast in Pennsylvania to determine which of the political organization shall have the privilege of heading the ballot in Pennsylvania at next year's election at which local officers in the several counties will be elected. The first column of the ballot has been enjoyed by the Republican party ever since the Australian form of ballot was inaugurated in this state, just as the Republican party has almost without exception been in control in the state for 50 years.

It happens now that unless Theodore Roosevelt had a good many more votes cast for him under the "Bull Moose" and the "Roosevelt Progressive" titles than his friends in this state believe were cast in this manner, that first place on the ballot will pass to the newest of all political organizations, the Progressive, or as it is known in this state, the Washington party.

Unofficial returns of the Presidential election in the state give Col. Roosevelt a majority of about 47,000 votes over Woodrow Wilson. Roosevelt's Pennsylvania managers do not believe that anything like 47,000 votes were cast for him under the "Bull Moose" and "Roosevelt Progressive" titles. If this is true, then there is no doubt about the Washington party having first place on the next ballot, unless the next general assembly should materially alter or amend the ballot law, for Roosevelt's majority over Taft in Pennsylvania is approximately 150,000 votes.

If the official count shows Roosevelt, as the Washington party candidate, running behind Wilson as the Democratic candidate, then first place on the ballot goes to the Democratic party. In this event the Democratic party would move from the second to the first column and the Washington party from the last to the second column, the Republican party, in stalwart Pennsylvania, shifting from first to the third column. The probability seems to be that the Washington party will move from the eighth to the first column, though the official count must decide.

New York Central Said to be Backing Mingo Railroad.

CUT-OFF IS THE OBJECT

Freight Shipments East and West Would be Handled Quicker.

The New York Central railroad is said to be the backer of an enterprise to construct a new cut-off through the Mingo district below Monongahela. Engineers are busy making surveys, having been located in the vicinity of the Star mine for several days in laying out the route of a proposed line to be known as the Mingo Railroad.

The ultimate object of the Mingo Railroad, which may or may not be an actuality within the course of a year or two is to provide a short cut around Pittsburgh which will permit through freights, both east and west to be hauled in train loads without the delay at the Pittsburgh yards. It is stated the connecting link with the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie system is to be made somewhere near Monongahela. Another connection will be made it is believed along the Ohio valley.

The opening of the Western Maryland road and the opening of the Fayette City connection will bring a lot of traffic to the New York Central and this in addition to the coal and coke trade which will originate in the upper Monongahela valley as a result of the opening up of the Monongahela Railroad and the Buckhannon and Northern branch, will open up to the system unlimited possibilities. There is a big bed in the river right below Monongahela. By a straight cut towards the Ohio valley not only would the New York Central benefit in the matter of time saving but also in the matter of territory, there being a rich section remaining to be developed.

W. & J. AND PITTSBURG ARE WELL MATCHED

Much interest is being manifested among football bugs in Charleroi over the game Saturday at Forbes field in Pittsburgh between the W. & J. College and Pitt teams. W. & J. record thus far is the best attained in recent years by her football team. Perhaps the most notable achievement was a 0-0 game with the Carlisle Indians. Cornell only defeated the Red and Black by a single field goal and Yale was played a very close game and scored on. All other games played have been easy victories.

Pitt's showing up to this time does not look as well on paper as W. & J.'s but football experts know that the strength of two teams cannot be "doped out" on comparative scores. When they meet it is a case of eleven good men opposing each other and no one can forecast with accuracy what the result will be.

PERSONAL STANDARD.

In searching about for the various remedies to offset the high cost of living, there is no better place to begin than on one's personal standard.
Every one, practically is paying too much for what they wear, too much for personal luxuries, and too much for their pleasures and recreations.
Here is where the expenditures can be scaled down to a remarkable degree without impairing one's health, comfort or enjoyment.

Start with the matter of clothing.
A man has gotten in the habit of paying a certain price for a certain grade of shoes, hats, shirts and clothing. The price of these different grades advance steadily, for no other reason, apparently, than that the purchaser will pay the price, which he invariably does. Shoes that one used to pay $3 a pair have advanced successively in price to $3.50, $4, $4.50
and $5 until now the average man thinks he cannot get a pair of shoes for less than $5, and as much more as his pride warrants. In hats it is the same way, while in women's apparel the advance is even more startling. The ordinary woman thinks she is economizing if she pays a $10
hat when the season's style changes.

If marketing clubs of men and women would resolve not to wear clothing at top notch prices, and to cut out some of the continuous round-of pleasure that costs money, they would have more real pleasure and more of a competence. It is the continual drain that consumes the income for which there is no appreciable return. In former times this drain was not in existence, and the pinch was not felt. If large bodies of women would refuse to pay more than $5 for a hat, and if men would not pay more than $3.50 for a pair of shoes, it would be a very short time before manufacturers and dealers would be competing for products at these prices and offering an exceeding good article. A personal standard in which all will co-operate will do more to lower prices than to agitate and look to legislation or a lowering of the tariff.

SWAT THE MINIMUM.

In these days of political upheavals,
when much radical and revolutionary legislation is to be expected, it would be well to include the minimum rate which many corporations that enjoy public franchises for public utilities impose upon the people. Like the fly, the minimum rate should be swatted.

The argument that a corporation that purveys a public utility must impose a minimum rate in order to insure a return on the great outlay
of capital invested, does not hold water. In the first place the corporation is given free of cost an enormous subsidy in the way of a free franchise
which insures a steady and large return upon the capital. This subsidy is created by the people and belongs to them. By living in the community, grouping their interests, buying and improving property, more people are attracted and thus a good field is afforded in which to do business. A merchant is glad to take his chances in such a field which is open to competition without a subsidy, but a utilities corporation gets a franchise
for nothing which in most cases practically debars competition and then imposes additional tribute on the people for the benefits the latter have created.

A minimum rate for a public utility makes people pay for what they do not get. It is barefaced robery and the people do not have to hold up their hands and be robbed.
Some petitions to the legislature this winter might have the effect of bringing the matter up for discussion at least. Perhaps the public utilities commission bill might be so framed that the minimum could be swatted like the fly. Let us make an effort in that direction at least.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"The news this morning of the assassination of Senor Canalejas, premier of the Spanish cabinet in Madrid, recalls the lesson in diplomacy
that the American government taught the foreign representatives just before the breaking out of the Spanish-American war in this country," said an old timer, who keeps close tab on public affairs. "This was the De Lome incident, which is referred to in the papers this morning in connection with the death of Premier Can-alejas.

"Senor Dupuy de Lome was the Spanish minister to the United States
and he wrote a letter to Canalejas,
in which he commented in a most unfavorable manner upon the attitude of President McKinley in the regard to the Cuban situation, which was then becoming more acute every day.
The letter fell into the hands of the Cuban junta, who sent it to the United States, and it became public property.
It was a grave offense, paramount to an insult, but it was not certain that the letter was authentic,
as it had only been received second hand. Then the question arose, how could the United States officials find out whether or not De Lome wrote the letter. All the foreign representatives said it was a most delicate piece of diplomacy, and they intimated that Americans did not possess the finesse to deal with the situation.

"It remained for Judge Day, who at that time was acting secretary of state, to solve the problem, and he did it in a way that made the foreign ministers gasp with astonishment.
Judge Day was a country lawyer who had been elected judge of an Ohio county court when President McKinley induced him to accept the position in Washington. Taking the copy of the letter Judge Day walked cross the lot to the quarters of the Spanish minister, De Lome and laying the document before him asked:
"Did you write this letter?"
"The Spanish minister, after some maneuvering, finally admitted that he did, and Judge Day departed, saying:
"That's all I wanted to know."
"Without further delay De Lome
was given his passports by this government, which is equivalent to being fired. The diplomacy of Judge Day, the country lawyer, however, was a surprise and a revelation to the foreign ministers who were not used to direct dealing in matters of state."

"I'll never forget my first experience as a clerk in a country store,"
said a prominent Charleroi business man. "I was a green country boy of 13
and my first customer was a young lady who asked for a pair of hose.
I had never heard of women's foot covering being called anything but stockings, so the term hose completely stumped me. I looked around over the shelves, and finally pulled down a pair of corsets, and asked if that was the article wanted. I was much chagrined to learn of my mistake.

now, all right."

SADDLE MAKING IN MEXICO.

Entire Families Often Take Part in the Home Industry.

The making of saddles, while in the aggregate an important local Mexican industry, is purely a home affair, the artisans for the most part working independently in their own homes and often pressing the entire family into service. The manager of the largest wholesale and retail dealers in saddles
in Mexico City says that all the saddles which they handle are made locally at home by hand, and he estimates that more than 100 families in the city are similarly employed.

Many of these handmade saddles are handsomely carved and most creditable in appearance, although the leather as a rule is far inferior to that used in American saddles. It is the practice of retailers to furnish the trees, leather and fittings of all kinds to the workmen and pay them for their actual labor. The labor is the cheapest item entering into saddle construction, many entire families being satisfied with a wage of 50 cents to $1 American currency per day.

The saddletrees used for the bette-grade of saddle are imported from the state of Colima, the cheaper grade of saddles using a tree of local make. No American saddles or saddletrees are carried in stock by local merchants,
but are ordered from time to time according to the specifications of the individual purchaser.—Trade and Consul-tar Reports.

ROLLING THUNDER.

Why the Rumble at Times Is So Long Drawn Out.

The prolonged roll of thunder is readily explained by comparison with a volley fired along a line of troops.

Suppose troops to be drawn up on a line in such numbers as to extend for a mile and ordered by a signal that all could see to fire at once. One standing at the end of the line would hear the report of the musket nearest him instantly. He would hear the others successively. Thus a report 550 feet away would come to him in half a second, and he would not hear the last report for five or six seconds after the gun had been fired. This would produce a sort of roll, which would gradually increase in intensity.

If the listener stood exactly midway between the two ends of the line the reports from both ends would reach him at once, and the sound would be but half as long in reaching him as if he stood at one extremity. If the soldiers formed a circle there would be one sharp explosion.

Flashes of lightning may be considered as representing three lines of troops along which the explosions occur at the same time. Consider the variety of distance and position of the listener and we account for the variety of sound in thunder. In mountainous regions the rolling is augmented
by reverberations or echoes.

Pharaohs Had the Hookworm.

The hookworm has been preying on man perhaps for thousands of years.
A papyrus written 3,400 years ago contains a description of a disease in Egypt which many physicians declare was the hookworm disease. It describes it too accurately to be anything else.
In recent times it was observed in Egypt first in 1833, but the first recorded treatment was made in 1887.
Whether or not malaria was one of the chief causes of the downfall of Greece and Rome, it is very certain that hookworm disease has played a part in Asiatic history. The anemic condition of millions of people, century
after century, has profoundly affected their economic life, their intellectual qualities, their social habits and ideals and their religion. Of that there can be no doubt.—World's Work

JUDGES TO BE REAPPOINTED TO COMMON FLEAS

Gov. John K. Tener has indicated that he does not favor the recall of judges, and that before the first of January he will reappoint the five common pleas judges and the four members of the orphans' court in this State, whose terms expire with the new year and whose successors cannot be elected until next November.

It is now learned that nine other judges whose terms will expire on the first Monday of January, 1915,
will have to be appointed for a year or their successors appointed because of the failure of the schedule
to the recently adopted constitutional amendments to adjust the new election system. If the next assembly should pass a corrective amendment and the people should O. K. it these appointments will be unnecessary.
Otherwise the terms of these judges will have to be extended by appointment: Common pleas, Mayer Sulzberger, Philadelphia; Henry W. Scott, Northampton; Wilbur F. Sadler, Cumberland; Joseph M. Woods, Huntington; A. W. Williams, Mercer; S.
J. Telford, Indiana; Samuel McC.
Swope, Adams; William E. Porter, Lawrence.

Judge William G. Hawkins of this county is the only orphans' court judge in the state affected by the

Made a Strike Too.

In an Imperial city a criminal was condemned to be beheaded who had a singular itching to play at ninepins.
While his sentence was pronouncing
he had the temerity to offer a request to be permitted to play once more at his favorite game at the place of execution, and then, he said, he would submit without a murmur. As the last prayer of a dying man, his request was granted. When arrived at the solemn spot he found everything prepared, the pins being set up and the bowl ready.
He played with no little earnestness,
but the sheriff at length seeing that he showed no inclination to desist, privately ordered the executioner to strike the fatal blow as he stooped for the bowl. The executioner did so, and the head dropped into the culprit's hand as he raised himself to see what had occurred. He immediately aimed at the nine, conceiving that it was the bowl which he grasped. All nine pins falling, the head loudly exclaimed, "I have won the game!"—From the German.

An Old Tale and a New One.

The ancient story (or was it a fable?)
about the poor boy who carefully packed up a pin in a tank, was given a job
by an official of the institution who noted his thrifty act and finally became president of that same bank found a reminder the other day in the figure of a youthful bookblack who during a lull
in trade sat upon his box sewing up a rent in his well worn jacket.

"I suppose you expect to be president of a bookblackening trust some day, my lad?" suggested a kindly old gentleman who observed his industry.

"Ah, g'wan," the youthful wielder of the needle replied. "What yer givin' me?"

"What are you doing that kind of work for?" he was asked.

"Cause me mudder's out workin' all day, an' she's too tired to do it when night comes," said he.

"That trust idea may pay out yet," observed the old man reflectively as he passed on.—New York Globe.

The Very Least.

"Ah!" he sighed. "If you only gave me the least possible hope!"
"Good gracious!" retorted the hard hearted being. "I've been giving you
the least I ever gave to any man!"

ANAEMIC PEOPLE

Need More Iron in the Blood.

If you are anaemic you need more iron in your blood, and the tell-tale symptoms are a pale face—colorless lips, ashen finger nails, poor circulation and short breath, and more serious diseases are easily contracted when in this condition.

What Vinol did for Mrs. G. S. Manuel of San Antonio, Texas, it will do for every anaemic run-down person.
She says: "I was weak and nervous and had general debility for about three years. My health was badly run down and my complexion became sallow and badly affected with pimples.
While in this weakened condition I contracted pluriy, which made it very hard for me. I am happy to say that Vinol has restored me to health again and I have no cough or soreness of the lungs at all."

We ask every anaemic or rundown, weak person in this vicinity
to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim. Piper Bros., Druggist, Char-

FLOOR RAISED AT AT COYLE THEATRE

Manager R. S. Coyle of the Coyle Theatre has made some improvements which add greatly to the convenience of that popular house as well as to the comfort of his patrons. He has raised the seats in the back of the house so that they have an unobstructed view of the screen, regardless of how many may be sitting in front. This was done by building an incline which started from about the middle of the house, and gradually raises until at the back the floor is 30 inches higher than the center. The rows of seats are leveled up so that the comfort of the occupant is not disturbed and the very back seats now afford the best view of the screen.

In addition Mr. Coyle has widened the space between some of the rows in the back of the house. This he did he says, for the convenience of fat men and large people who find it difficult to squeeze in when the rows are placed at the customary distance apart. The work of raising the floor was accomplished on Tuesday by the Charleroi Lumber company. It was done under the supervision of Frank Welsh, who with a crew of five men completed the work in time for the evening shows. Over 2,000 feet of flooring was laid besides a big amount of work in building the supporting trestles.

Mr. Coyle contemplates many more improvements which will place the Coyle Theatre in first-class shape for the winter season.

MOTHER DEAD AN EXCUSE FOR DRUNK WEEPS SOUTHSIDER

"Chief, I plead with you, give me a drink," came in agonized tones from Philip Carey, of Southside, Pittsburg this morning at the lockup. Great tears were in the man's eyes and trickled their muddy way down either cheek. It was apparent that the man felt very sorry for himself.

"My mother died a week ago and was buried. It was awful," and down came another pallid of salty brine. "Now just imagine, Chief, what that meant to me." More rain. "That was why I fell from grace and a good job. Now won't you give me a drink." And still the rain fell unabated.

Philip was found on the street begging Tuesday night and referred to Chief of Police Albright, who attended to his lodging. Before the chief had had time to search him he had emptied a part of a half pint bottle of snarl-foot. This morning he had the morning after effects and needed to have his interior. He didn't get the much desired limewater but was given the signal to get out of town.

PRAYER MEETINGS GROW IN INTEREST

Great interest is being manifested in the simultaneous cottage prayer meetings that are being held each night this week by members of the First Christian church in preparation for evangelistic services to begin next Sunday night. Nightly the attendance at these prayer meetings is increasing. Tonight meetings are to be held at the homes of Thomas Alger on Shady avenue; Anna Kibler on Lincoln avenue and David Duvall on Crest avenue and at North Charleroi at the home of John Morris on Center avenue.

His One More Day.
The account of the death of a well known professor of chemistry of the eighteenth century believed that man required only one meal a day and for twenty years he practiced what he preached. At 4 he would present himself at a chophouse in Paternoster row, and immediately upon his arrival the cook would place a pound and a half of mutton steak upon the gridiron. While it was cooking the doctor would amuse himself with some such trifles as half a broiled capon or a plate of fish and a glass or two of brandy. Then came the steak, with a full accompaniment of bread and potatoes and a quart tankard of strong ale. This was followed by a bottle of old port, after which he would stroll to his rooms in Essex street, where he met his class and gave lectures on chemistry. London Chronicle.

Organization to be Perpetuated in Borough and County.

PLEASSED WITH SHOWING

Leaders Happy Over Great

Success at Election--Banquet for Dr. Temple.

Highly gratified at the showing made at the election last week, Washington party men of this community are taking steps to make the organization formed previous to election permanent. The Progressive club which was formed to carry on the campaign for the national district and county officers will be maintained for the time being much as it is, with the same corps of officers.

It is understood to be the intention of the county Progressive organization to perfect a club and to perpetuate its existence by the pre-emption of a name. The Washington party was as successful in this district as it was almost anywhere, leading a Congressman and one of three legislators, to say nothing of breaking the grip of the Republicans in their strongholds.

Next year there will be to elect in the county a recorder to take the place of J. C. Sutherland, and a controller to take the place of John H. Moffitt. In Charleroi there will be an important election, among other officers to be selected being those of bridges and tax collector; two councilmen and two members of the school board. The new Progressive party will back men for these offices.

Dr. H. J. Repman is the president of the Charleroi Progressive club; George S. Migh is the vice president; Guy Moffitt, Esq., is the secretary and Albion Bindley is the treasurer.

Arrangements are being made at the county seat to tender the Congressman-elect, Dr. H. W. Temple, an honor banquet on next Thursday night.

FREIGHT SIDESWIPES A PASSENGER TRAIN

Some delay in traffic was the result of a slight wreck at the West Brownville Junction Tuesday night. Passenger train 171, north bound, due in Charleroi at 8:31 o'clock was sideswiped by a freight train. Cars of both trains were derailed. The damage was slight.

When the mother turned the child was dead.

RICH COAL FIELD TO BE OPENED UP BY NEW RAILROAD

Extensive developments of the Greene county, this state and the Monongahela county, W. Va., coal fields will begin soon after the first of the year, according to railroad officials. It is said that many owners of properties in the two counties, opened by the Buckhannon & Northern railroad and the extension of the Monongahela railroad, have pretty well defined plans for the opening of new mines and that announcement of such plans may be expected soon.

Coupled with this statement, is the declaration of another railroad official that the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie expects to secure two-thirds of the coal and coke needed for fuel in the factories and industries along the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie lines, from the coal fields in the two counties. At present only one-third of the fuel needed in the factories and mills along the P & L. E. lines is taken from territories reached by this railroad and its subsidiaries. Consequently more than half of the fuel needed in these factories will be secured from Greene and Monongahela counties, according to high officials.

Regular freight traffic over the new railroad is expected to begin January 1, it is stated, following a trip of inspection by officials of the New York Central lines Saturday.

BAPTIST YOUNG PEOPLE TO MEET HERE ON FRIDAY

Baptist Young People's unions of the churches comprising the sixth group, Pittsburg Baptist Association will hold a rally at the Charleroi Baptist church on Friday evening of this week. People will attend from the various churches represented in the district, Library, Monongahela, Donora, Monessen, Riverview and others.

A euchre will be held at Turner hall tonight for the benefit of St. Jerome's church. Playing will begin at 8 o'clock. All are invited. 96-11

MOTHER IS CHARGED WITH KILLING BABE

Donora Woman Thought to be Insane Held for Drowning Four-Months Old Child in a Wash Boiler.

The county authorities are confronted by a particularly sad case from Donora in the person of Mrs. Catherine Sampo, wife of Steve Sampo, a respected foreigner employed on the railroad there. The woman whose home is on Watkins avenue, is charged with having drowned her 4-months-old daughter. She is now held in the Donora lockup awaiting the outcome of an inquest which will be held by Coroner James Heffran this evening.

Mrs. Sampo for the past six months has been suffering from mental derangement, according to those who know her. It is said the husband, who is a hard working man, has made ineffectual attempts to have her cared for in the county home and in the Allegheny General hospital. Monday Sampo went to Pittsburgh to make another attempt to have his wife placed in an institution where she could receive treatment. He did not get back to Donora until the late train. When he entered his home he was surprised to see his little 4-months-old daughter sitting in a rocking chair. A second glance showed the child was dead. The mother and her two boys were asleep in an adjoining room.

Sampo called in neighbors and a physician was summoned. An examination showed the child had been drowned and an investigation about the case led to the conclusion that the insane mother had ended the little one's life by thrusting it into a wash boiler filled with soap suds. Mrs. Sampo was taken to the lockup. She refuses to answer any questions and sits in her cell apparently entirely oblivious of all about her. Since being locked up she has taken no food and has not slept.

Coroner Heffran was notified and set the inquest for this evening

COURT CASES HEARD

Sentences Are Imposed on Number of Offenders

WELL UP WITH CASES

The trial list for criminal court at Washington for the first two days of this week has been cleared up, with the exception of two liquor cases. Several petty cases were disposed of Tuesday.

Charles Nixon a Washington colored character, charged with keeping a gambling house, entered a plea of guilty. Sentence was suspended pending the disposition of the case against him in which he is charged with larceny from person.

John Wright, a young married man of North Strabane township, near Canonsburg, was given a rather severe sentence when he was convicted upon lewdness. He was directed to pay the costs, fine of $25 and to undergo imprisonment in the county jail for four months.

James Palmer, colored, was acquitted of a serious charge preferred against him on behalf of his young stepdaughter.

I. E. Goodridge, a Washington meat dealer, was found guilty of maintaining a nuisance. The alleged offense arose out of complaints against a slaughter house maintained by Mr. Goodridge on West Maiden street extension. He was paroled on condition that he pay the costs and abate the nuisance.

Robert Sineat, charged with carrying concealed weapons was found not guilty, but assessed half the costs. The other half was placed on Andrew Kurtz, the private prosecutor. The alleged offense was committed at Avella.

Andy Suosko, of Canonsburg, is on trial for violating the liquor laws. Isaac Levenstein of Cecil, is on trial on a charge of open lewdness.

Mike Dombriski and Mike Smith, charged with assault and battery were found guilty. They are witnesses in the Levenstein case and sentence has not yet been pronounced.

The grand jury is still at work and on Tuesday heard several cases. There was an unusual number of bills ignored with costs placed on the private prosecutors. The grand

day. It will be just a week today since it began its work.

Kerfoot W. Daly, Charles S. Van Voorhis and Tom P. Sloan have gone to Fulton county on a hunting trip.

DYNAMITE TO WRECK A ROLLER

Road Repair Vehicle Blown up by Unknown at Zollarsville

BLOODHOUNDS ON TRAIL

A dynamite outrage which has aroused the entire community in the vicinity of Marianna and Zollarsville occurred about 8:30 Tuesday night when the steam road roller owned by West Bethlehem township was dynamited and totally wrecked. At a late hour Isaac Walker and his bloodhounds arrived from Washington and started to work on the case, it being the determination of the residents of the countryside to clear up the mystery surrounding the dynamiting.

The roller which had been in use was left standing near the residence of J. M. Horn not far from Zollarsville. About 8:30 o'clock a terrific explosion, which was heard over a wide area occurred. Mr. Horn and his son Clyde ran out and soon found the cause. So violent was the explosion that telephone lines were wrecked and it was some little time before the alarm could be spread. After a brief investigation it was decided to summon the bloodhounds.

The dynamite had evidently been placed in the roller for a definite purpose and when the stuff let go it spent the greater part of its force on the forward part of the machine. The front end was demolished and the front of the boiler torn completely off. It is believed it will be impossible to repair the machine.

About the roller were found footprints and those attracted by the explosion were kept back from these in order that they might not be obliterated. Running from the roller was found a fuse which ended in a field 40 feet away. At the end of the fuse was found a canvas glove.

Between 25 and 30 persons were called out by the explosion and following the examination which determined that it was a dynamite outrage various efforts were made to find a clue to the perpetrator. Feeling ran high and at a late hour Tuesday night the members of the self-appointed posse expressed themselves as determined to run the guilty person or persons to earth.

MAKING SURVEYS FOR NEW RAILROAD LINE

Monongahela Building Gutted by Flames This Morning at Early Hour

A building adjoining the Ideal Theatre on Main street at Monongahela was destroyed by fire this morning at about 3 o'clock, entailing a loss of about $1,500. The building was owned by David Wexler, who held insurance sufficient to cover the damage. The entire inside of the structure was gutted. Investigations are being made to ascertain the cause of the fire.

OFFICIAL COUNT NECESSARY TO SIX STANDING

Advices from Harrisburg are to the effect that it is going to require an official count of the votes cast in Pennsylvania to determine which of the political organizations shall have the privilege of heading the ballot in Pennsylvania at next year's election at which local officers in the several counties will be elected. The first column of the ballot has been enjoyed by the Republican party ever since the Australian form of ballot was inaugurated in this state, just as the Republican party has almost without exception been in control in the state for 50 years.

It happens now that unless Theodore Roosevelt had a good many more votes cast for him under the "Bull Moose" and the "Roosevelt Progressive" titles than his friends in this state believe were cast in this manner, that first place on the ballot will pass to the newest of all political organizations, the Progressive, or as it is known in this state, the Washington party.

Unofficial returns of the Presidential election in the state give Col. Roosevelt a majority of about 47,000 votes over Woodrow Wilson. Roosevelt's Pennsylvania managers do not believe that anything like 47,000 votes were cast for him under the "Bull Moose" and "Roosevelt Progressive" titles. If this is true, then there is no doubt about the Washington party having first place on the next ballot, unless the next general assembly should materially alter or amend the ballot law, for Roosevelt's majority over Taft in Pennsylvania is approximately 150,000 votes.

If the official count shows Roosevelt, as the Washington party candidate, running behind Wilson as the Democratic candidate, then first place on the ballot goes to the Democratic party. In this event the Democratic party would move from the second to the first column and the Washington party from the last to the second column. The Republican party, in stalwart Pennsylvania, shifting from first to the third column. The probability seems to be that the Washington party will move from the eighth to the first column, though the official count must decide.

New York Central Said to be Backing Mingo Railroad.

CUT-OFF IS THE OBJECT

Freight Shipments East and West Would be Handled Quicker.

The New York Central railroad is said to be the backer of an enterprise to construct a new cut-off through the Mingo district below Monongahela. Engineers are busy making surveys, having been located in the vicinity of the Star mine for several days in laying out the route of a proposed line to be known as the Mingo Railroad.

The ultimate object of the Mingo Railroad, which may or may not be an actuality within the course of a year or two is to provide a short cut around Pittsburg which will permit through freights, both east and west to be hauled in train loads without the delay at the Pittsburg yards. It is stated the connecting link with the Pittsburg and Lake Erie system is to be made somewhere near Monongahela. Another connection will be made it is believed along the Ohio valley.

The opening of the Western Maryland road and the opening of the Fayette City connection will bring a lot of traffic to the New York Central and this in addition to the coal and coke trade which will originate in the upper Monongahela valley as a result of the opening up of the Monongahela Railroad and the Buckhannon and Northern branch, will open up to the system unlimited possibilities. There is a big bed in the river right below Monongahela. By a straight cut towards the Ohio valley not only would the New York Central benefit in the matter of time saving but also in the matter of territory, there being a rich section remaining to be developed.

W. & J. AND PITTSBURG ARE WELL MATCHED

Much interest is being manifested among football bugs in Charleroi over the game Saturday at Forbes field in Pittsburg between the W. & J. college and Pitt teams. W. & J. record thus far is the best attained in recent years by her football team. Perhaps the most notable achievement was a 0-0 game with the Carlisle Indians. Cornell only defeated the Red and Black by a single field goal and Yale was played a very close game and scored on. All other games played have been easy victories.

Pitt's showing up to this time does not look as well on paper as W. & J.'s but football experts know that the strength of two teams cannot be "doped out" on comparative scores. When they meet it is a case of eleven good men opposing each other and no one can forecast with accuracy what the result will be.

PERSONAL STANDARD.

In searching about for the various remedies to offset the high cost of living, there is no better place to begin than on one's personal standard. Every one, practically is paying too much for what they wear, too much for personal luxuries, and too much for their pleasures and recreations. Here is where the expenditures can be scaled down to a remarkable degree without impairing one's health, comfort or enjoyment.

Start with the matter of clothing. A man has gotten in the habit of paying a certain price for a certain grade of shoes, hats, shirts and clothing. The price of these different grades advance steadily, for no other reason, apparently, than that the purchaser will pay the price, which he invariably does. Shoes that one used to pay $3 a pair have advanced successively in price to $3.50, $4, $4.50 and $5 until now the average man thinks he cannot get a pair of shoes for less than $5, and as much more as his pride warrants. In hats it is the same way, while in women's apparel the advance is even more startling. The ordinary woman thinks she is economizing if she buys a $10 hat when the season's style changes.

If marketing clubs of men and women would resolve not to wear clothing at top notch prices, and to cut out some of the continuous rounds of pleasure that costs money, they would have more real pleasure and more of a competence. It is the continual drain that consumes the income for which there is no appreciable return. In former times this drain was not in existence, and the pinch was not felt. If large bodies of women would refuse to pay more than $5 for a hat, and if men would not pay more than $3.50 for a pair of shoes, it would be a very short time before manufacturers and dealers would be competing for products at these prices and offering an exceedingly good article. A personal standard in which all will co-operate will do more to lower prices than to agitate and look to legislation or a lowering of the tariff.

SWAT THE MINIMUM.

In these days of political upheavals, when much radical and revolutionary legislation is to be expected, it would be well to include the minimum in such laws.

enjoy public franchises for public utilities impose upon the people. Like the fly, the minimum rate should be swatted.

The argument that a corporation that purveys a public utility must impose a minimum rate in order to insure a return on the great outlay of capital invested, does not hold water. In the first place the corporation is given free of cost an enormous subsidy in the way of a free franchise which insures a steady and large return upon the capital. This subsidy is created by the people and belongs to them. By living in the community, grouping their interests, buying and improving property, more people are attracted and thus a good field is afforded in which to do business. A merchant is glad to take his chances in such a field which is open to competition without a subsidy, but a utilities corporation gets a franchise for nothing which in most cases practically debars competition and then imposes additional tribute on the people for the benefits the latter have created.

A minimum rate for a public utility makes people pay for what they do not get. It is barefaced robbery and the people do not have to hold up their hands and be robbed. Some petitions to the legislature this winter might have the effect of bringing the matter up for discussion at least. Perhaps the public utilities commission bill might be so framed that the minimum could be swatted like the fly. Let us make an effort in that direction at least.

"The news this morning of the assassination of Senor Canalejas, premier of the Spanish cabinet in Madrid, recalls the lesson in diplomacy that the American government taught the foreign representatives, just before the breaking out of the Spanish-American war in this country," said an old timer, who keeps close tab on public affairs. "This was the De Lome incident, which is referred to in the papers this morning in connection with the death of Premier Canalejas."

"Senor Dupuy de Lome was the Spanish minister to the United States and he wrote a letter to Canalejas, in which he commented in a most unfavorable manner upon the attitude of President McKinley in the regard to the Cuban situation, which was then becoming more acute every day. The letter fell into the hands of the Cuban junta, who sent it to the United States, and it became public property. It was a grave offense, paramount to an insult, but it was not certain that the letter was authentic, as it had only been received second hand. Then the question arose, how could the United States officials find out whether or not De Lome wrote the letter. All the foreign representatives said it was a most delicate piece of diplomacy, and they intimated that Americans did not possess the finesse to deal with the situation."

"It remained for Judge Day, who at that time was acting secretary of state, to solve the problem, and he did it in a way that made the foreign ministers gasp with astonishment. Judge Day was a country lawyer who had been elected judge of an Ohio county court when President McKinley induced him to accept the position in Washington. Taking the copy of the letter Judge Day walked cross the lot to the quarters of the Spanish minister, De Lome and laying the document before him, asked: "Did you write this letter?" "The Spanish minister, after some maneuvering, finally admitted that he did, and Judge Day departed, saying:

"That's all I wanted to know." "Without further delay De Lome was given his passports by this government, which is equivalent to being fired. The diplomacy of Judge Day, the country lawyer, however, was a surprise and a revelation to the foreign ministers who were not used to direct dealing in matters of state."

"I'll never forget my first experience as a clerk in a country store," said a prominent Charleroi business man. "I was a green country boy of 14 and my first customer was a young lady who asked for a pair of hose. I had never heard of women's foot covering being called anything but stockings, so the term hose completely stumped me. I looked around over the shelves, and finally pulled down a pair of corsets, and asked: 'Is that what you wanted. I was much chagrined to learn of my mistake."

"However, I know the difference now, all right."

The Real Thing.

SADDLE MAKING IN MEXICO.

Entire Families Often Take Part in the Hand Industry.

The making of saddles, while in the recent years it has become a big industry, is purely a home affair; the artisans for the most part working independently in their own homes, and often pressing the entire family into service. The manager of the largest wholesale and retail dealers in saddles in Mexico City says that all the saddles which they handle are made locally at home by hand, and he estimates that more than 100 families in the city are similarly employed.

Many of these handmade saddles are handsomely carved and most creditable in appearance, although the leather as a rule is far inferior to that used in American saddles. It is the practice of retailers to furnish the trees, leather and fittings of all kinds to the workmen and pay them for their actual labor. The labor is the cheapest item entering into saddle construction, many entire families being satisfied with a wage of 50 cents to $1 American currency per day.

The saddletrees used for the better grade of saddle are imported from the state of Colima, the cheaper grade of saddles using a tree of local make. American saddles or saddletrees are carried in stock by local merchants, but are ordered from time to time according to the specifications of the individual purchaser.—Trade and Consular Reports.

ROLLING THUNDER.

Why the Rumble at Times Is So Long Drawn Out.

The prolonged roll of thunder is readily explained by comparison with a volley fired along a line of troops.

Suppose troops to be drawn up on a line in such numbers as to extend for a mile and ordered by a signal that all could see to fire at once. One standing at the end of the line would hear the report of the musket nearest him instantly. He would hear the others successively. Thus a report 550 feet away would come to him in half a second, and he would not hear the last report for five or six seconds after the gun had been fired. This would produce a sort of roll, which would gradually increase in intensity.

If the listener stood exactly midway between the two ends of the line the reports from both ends would reach him at once, and the sound would be but half as long in reaching him as if he stood at one extremity. If the soldiers formed a circle there would be one sharp explosion.

Flashes of lightning may be considered as representing three lines of troops along which the explosions occur at the same time. Consider the variety of distance and position of the listener and we account for the variety of sound in thunder. In mountainous regions the rolling is augmented by reverberations or echoes.

Pharaohs Had the Hookworm.

The hookworm has been preying on man perhaps for thousands of years. A papyrus written 3,460 years ago contains a description of a disease in Egypt which many physicians declare was the hookworm disease. It describes it too accurately to be anything else. In recent times it was observed in Egypt first in 1833, but the first recorded treatment was made in 1837. Whether or not malaria was one of the chief causes of the downfall of Greece and Rome, it is very certain that hookworm disease has played a part in Asiatic history. The anemic condition of millions of people, century after century, has profoundly affected their economic life, their intellectual qualities, their social habits and ideals and their religion. Of that there can be no doubt.—World's Work.

How She Jogged Memory.

Little Marjorie was taking her first lessons in dancing. The teacher noticed that Marjorie always failed to put out her left foot when commanded to do so. The teacher was patient and thought Marjorie would learn in time, but a number of lessons did not seem to make her know when to put out her left foot. Marjorie would put out that foot when the other children were placing their right feet foremost. Finally the teacher asked Marjorie for an explanation.

"Well, you see," said Marjorie. "I've got a hollow place in a tooth on the left side, and I always have to find that hollow place with my tongue to find out which is my left foot."—Indianapolis News.

Silenced.

"What did you mean by starting the story that I was an unbeliever in the Scriptures?" asked the deacon in great wrath.

"Well, deekin," said the man who had originated the report, "you know you told me that all you said about that loss I bought was as true as God's pill. An' you know how true it was."

"Er—ah," said the deacon.

Didn't Go In.

"I see you passed a candy store on your way home this evening."

"How in the world did you know that?"

"Because you didn't bring any candy home."

A Fortunate Dream.

In 1720 a terrible epidemic of cholera decimated Marseilles and Provence, and Sardinia owed its escape to a dream. At this period the viceroy of Sardinia dreamed that the disease had invaded Sardinia and that the ravages were frightful. When the viceroy awoke he was deeply impressed by his dream. A little later a merchantman put in its appearance at Cagliari, the capital, and demanded a place to berth. The Sardinian refused, and when it was blithely that the merchantman wanted to land some sick the viceroy threatened to train the guns of the fort upon the vessel if the captain did not instantly depart. The people of Cagliari thought that the viceroy was mad, but great was their joy later when they learned that this very ship, which went on to Marseilles, was responsible for introducing cholera into the famous port.

The Queer Chameleon.

There is nothing in the world will induce a chameleon to take even the slightest apparent interest in its surroundings unless it be the sight of what it considers a toothsome insect. The chameleon's method of taking its prey is very curious, being effected by shooting out an enormously long, wormlike tongue, the end of which is clubbed and covered with a viscid secretion, to which the insects stick and are thus drawn into its mouth. The actual projection of the tongue is made with marvelous rapidity. The eyes of the chameleon are very curious. They are very large, but with the exception of a small opening in the center, are covered with skin. They are also entirely independent of each other, with the result that occasionally the creature is looking forward over its nose with one eye, while with the other it is intently war-ning something directly behind it.

Made a Strike Too.

In an imperial city a criminal was condemned to be beheaded who had a singular itching to play at ninepins. While his sentence was pronouncing he had the temerity to offer a request to be permitted to play once more at his favorite game at the place of execution, and then he said, he would submit without a murmur. As the last prayer of a dying man, his request was granted. When arrived at the solemn spot he found everything prepared, the pins being set up and the bowl ready. He played with no little earnestness, but the sheriff at length, seeing that he showed no inclination to desist, privately ordered the executioner to strike the fatal blow as he stooped for the bowl. The executioner did so, and the head dropped into the culprit's hand as he raised himself to see what had occurred. He immediately aimed at the nine, conceiving that it was the bowl which he grasped. All nine pins falling, the head loudly exclaimed, "I have won the game!"—From the German.

An Old Tale and a New One.

The ancient story (or was it a fable?) about the poor boy who carefully picked up a pin in a bank, was given a job by an official of the institution who noted his thrifty act and finally became president of that same bank found a reminder the other day in the figure of a youthful bootblack who during a lull in trade sat upon his box sewing up a rent in his well worn jacket.

"I suppose you expect to be president of a bootblack's trust some day, my lad?" suggested a kindly old gentleman who observed his industry.

"Ah, g'wan," the youthful wielder of the needle replied. "What yer givin' me?"

"What are you doing that kind of work for?" he was asked.

"Cause me mudder's out workin' all day, an' she's too tired to do it when I get home."

"That trust idea may pan out yet," observed the old man reflectively as he passed on.—New York Globe.

The Very Least.

"Ah!" he sighed. "If you only gave me the least amount of love!"

"Good gracious!" replied the lady, "I've been giving you the least I could give you!"

JUDGES TO BE REAPPOINTED TO COMMON FLEAS

Gov. John K. Tener has indicated that he does not favor the recall of judges, and that before the first of January he will reappoint the five common pleas judges, and the four members of the orphans' court in this State, whose terms expire with the new year and whose successors can not be elected until next November.

It is now learned that nine other judges whose terms will expire on the first Monday of January, 1915, will have to be appointed for a year or their successors appointed because of the failure of the schedule to the recently adopted constitutional amendments to adjust the new election system. If the next assembly should pass a corrective amendment and the people should O. K. it these appointments will be unnecessary. Otherwise the terms of these judges will have to be extended by appointment: Common pleas, Mayer, Sulzberger, Philadelphia; Henry W. Scott, Northampton; Wilbur F. Sadler, Cumberland; Joseph M. Woods, Huntington; A. W. Williams, Mercer; S. J. Telford, Indiana; Samuel McC. Swope, Adams; William E. Porter, Lawrence.

Judge William G. Hawkins of this county is the only orphans' court judge in the state affected by the condition arising in 1915.

Revised Plans Received.

Revised plans of the armory to be constructed at Monongahela have been received and bids will shortly be asked for. After the first plans for the structure were drawn and bids were received it was learned that the appropriation would not be sufficient. That made a revision of the plans necessary.

Democrats to Celebrate.

Democrats of Monongahela are preparing to hold a celebration in honor of the victory of Gov. Woodrow Wilson in the national race. There will be a parade probably and plenty of speechmaking. The date for the affair has not been set.

ANAEMIC PEOPLE

Need More Iron in the Blood.

If you are anemic you need more iron in your blood, and the tell-tale symptoms are a pale face—colorless lips, ashen finger nails, poor circulation and short breath, and more serious diseases are easily contracted when in this condition.

What Vinol did for Mrs. G. S. Manuel of San Antonio, Texas, it will do for every anemic run-down person. She says: "I was weak and nervous and had general debility for about three years. My health was badly run down and my complexion became sallow and badly affected with pimples. While in this weakened condition I contracted pluri-sy, which made it very hard for me. I am happy to health again and I have no cough or soreness of the lungs at all."

We ask every anemic or run-down, weak person in this country to try a bottle of Vinol with this understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim. Price, 50c. Vinol, Chas. E. Smith, N. Y.

FLOOR RAISED AT AT COYLE THEATRE

Manager R. S. Coyle of the Coyle Theatre has made some improvements which add greatly to the convenience of that popular house as well as to the comfort of his patrons. He has raised the seats in the back of the house so that they have an unobstructed view of the screen, regardless of how many are sitting in front. This was done by building an incline which started from about the middle of the house, and gradually raises until at the back the floor is 30 inches higher than the center. The rows of seats are leveled up so that the comfort of the occupant is not disturbed and the very back seats now afford the best view of the screen.

In addition Mr. Coyle has widened the space between some of the rows in the back of the house. This he did he says, for the convenience of fat men and large people who find it difficult to squeeze in when the seats are placed at the customary distance apart. The work of raising the floor was accomplished on Tuesday by the Charleroi Lumber company. It was done under the supervision of Frank Welsh, who with a crew of five men completed the work in time for the evening shows. Over 2,000 feet of flooring was laid besides a big amount of work in building the supporting trestles.

Mr. Coyle contemplates many more improvements which will place the Coyle Theatre in first-class shape for the winter season.

MOTHER DEAD AN EXCUSE FOR DRUNK WEEPS SOUTHSIDER

"Chief, I plead with you, give me a drink," came in agonized tones from Philip Carey, of Southside, Pittsburgh this morning at the lockup. Great tears were in the man's eyes and trickled their muddy way down either cheek. It was apparent that the man felt very sorry for himself.

"My mother died a week ago and was buried. It was awful," and down came another painful of salty brine. "Now just imagine, Chief, what that meant to me." More rain.

"That was why I fell from grace and a good job. Now won't you give me a drink." And still the rain fell unabated.

Philip was found on the street begging Tuesday night and referred to Chief of Police Albright, who attended to his lodging. Before the chief had had time to search him he had emptied a part of a half pint bottle of snarl-foot. This morning he had the morning after effects and needed to leave his interior. He didn't get the much desired linewater but was given the signal to get out of town.
